Many prisoners came up for sentence at this afternoon's session of court.

Aaron Kinneman pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery. The offense was declared to be technical. Mr. Kinneman, residing with force an insult to his niece. The suit was brought by Charles Mummert, found guilty during the week of carrying concealed weapons. Sentenced to pay costs of prosecution amounting to about $100.00.

James Delaney, 38 years old, of Brooklyn, N. Y., found guilty of assault and battery on Chief Shearer, was given his freedom, having already served four months in jail and saying that he would be out of town "in five minutes" if released. Sentence was accordingly suspended, the prisoner promising good behavior in the future.

James Johnson, pleaded guilty of a charge of aggravated assault. He was one of the Baltimore negroes concerned in the fracas at the time of an excursion in June in which there was some shooting, another negro being struck three times by bullets from Johnson's revolver. He was given a penitentiary sentence of not less than nine months or more than three years. Charles Mummert, found guilty of carrying concealed weapons and recommended to the mercy of the court, was reprimanded for the offense Judge Swope taking occasion to speak of the danger of carrying weapons and referring to the Hamm-Sponseller shooting. A fine of $30 and the costs amounting to about $90.00 were imposed.

Paul Chronister, of East Berlin, pleaded guilty to shooting his brother-in-law, Curtis Leib, of East Berlin in the arm following an altercation. William Hersh, his attorney, said in his behalf that Chronister was despondent at the time of the crime and had purchased the revolver to commit suicide. Mr. Leib also appeared to ask parole in view of Chronister's family, a wife, three young children and an aged mother. A jail sentence of one month was imposed.

ORGANIZATION IS EFFECTED

Gettysburg Property Owners who Rent Houses Form Permanent Organization, Electing Officers. Purposes of the Association.

A permanent organization of the Gettysburg Real Estate Owners Protective Association was effected at a meeting held on Friday evening and the following officers were elected, president, William H. Johns; vice president, Prof. P. M. Bickle; secretary, Martin Winter; treasurer, Robert C. Shriver, who together with Charles H. Wilson, Joseph Matthews and Harry Koch form the executive committee.

The purpose of this association is to protect its members against loss from two classes of tenants, first, those who fail to pay their rent promptly and second, and probably the worse class, those who willingly or through gross carelessness and negligence damage the rented property. This damage consists usually in using the board walks, fences and outbuildings for fire wood, cutting wood on the kitchen floor, defacing the paint and paper and wood work in the house, allowing grease, dirt and filth in the kitchen, allowing grates in range and furnace to burn out, allowing water pipes, kitchen range and toilet room outfits to freeze up and break and so on.

With the association properly at work it will be difficult or impossible for tenants of the above classes to rent houses.

The association does not in any manner fix the rentals of property or have any power to raise rents, rather the reverse for if losses such as described can be avoided there will be no need to increase rates to tenants.

All persons having property to rent are invited to join the association.

HAMM IN COUNTY JAIL, SPONSELLER'S CONDITION REMAINS UNCHANGED

Albert Hamm, of McSherrystown, charged with attempting to kill Charles Sponseller early Friday morning between McSherrystown and Littlestown, is lodged in the Adams County jail having been brought here Friday afternoon by Officer Kiser of Hanover. His alleged victim's condition remains unchanged. It is serious but his recovery is possible provided blood poisoning does not follow.

When Hamm was arrested he was in bed at his home. He denied any knowledge of the affair and when his clothing was searched no weapon was found. He tried in vain to secure bail which Justice Lilly had placed at $1500 and also waived a hearing. He maintains stoutly his innocence in the matter though a telephone message from Hanover this afternoon stated that there were several witnesses who had seen the two men start out on their race towards Littlestown.

Hamm was formerly a mason but has lately been engaged in the butchering business in McSherrystown. He is married. Sponseller has a number of relatives in and about Gettysburg and is well known here.

The new firm proposes to manufacture soft mud bricks on an extensive scale and believe there is a sufficient market for its product, there and nearby.

In a short time the lumber for the buildings will be sawed out of the timber growing on the farm which the firm purchased.

TEACHERS AND PARENTS MEET

Gettysburg Parent Teachers Association Meets in Regular Session, Some Tobacco Dealers not Favorable to Action Taken.

The monthly meeting of the Parent Teachers Association was held Friday evening in the High School building on York street.

The committee appointed at the October meeting to solicit the co-operation of the business men in town to discourage the sale of cigarettes to minors, reported that they had interviewed some twenty men who received them kindly and agreed to post a copy of the act regulating the cigarette sale. There were only three men who did not receive the committee with favor and approve of the movement. The Women's Christian Temperance Union encouraged the movement by giving their efforts in assisting the association to prevent the sale of cigarettes to minors.

The committee reported that when one dealer was approached he said he would be specially glad to post the act as, within the past week, he had refused the sale of cigarettes a young boy. The youngster then got his father to make the purchase, the parent turning over two boxes to his child.

Dr. J. E. Musselman read a very interesting and helpful paper on "The Care of the Teeth" emphasizing the importance of attention to the teeth upon their first appearance. Prof. W. A. Burgoon then stated that he would have the typewriting class to make carbon copies of this paper, on the care of the teeth, and have every teacher in the public schools of Gettysburg read it before their pupils.

Mrs. Harry Holtzworth read a paper on "Music and Education," in which she pointed out that music is not a pastime, or degenerating but leads to higher ideals, and should be considered on a part with education as a necessary life.

A paper on "The Value of Music and the Development of Character," was read by Rev. F. E. Taylor, in which he emphasized the physical benefits to be derived together with the cultivation of high and noble sentiment, transforming power. It dispels care and pain. Song is the fast friend of patriotism. Noble song purifies thought and invokes high ideals. "A man who has no song or mood for sweet strains is fit for treason."

The association suggested to the directors who were present to consider the institution of a music course in the High School.

The secretary reported one hundred and seven members on the roll. The last number on the program was the election of officers to serve for the coming year. The results of the election were as follows: president, Mrs. Will M. Seligman; vice president, Mrs. William Arch McClean; secretary, Miss Mame Adams; treasurer, Rev. F. E. Taylor.

NEAR THE EARTH

An event of wide interest among star-gazers occurred Friday morning when the planet Mars approached nearer to the earth than it will at any time in the next two years.

The distance between the earth and Mars Friday was 47,000,000 miles, just about half that between the earth and the sun. The planets sometimes approach within 35,000,000 miles, but, too, they are sometimes nearly a quarter of a million miles apart.

Another interesting view in the eastern sky Friday morning about 4 o'clock was the planet Venus and the moon, the latter appearing directly below the star forming the emblem of star and crescent.

DON'T WANT DEER KILLED

Says the Chambersburg Public Opinion: "It has been many a day since Public Opinion has heard as many comments on articles as it has on the couple of stories printed about the slaughter of deer. It is truly amazing the sentiment there is in the community against killing deer in the South Mountain. Some citizens discuss the subject moderately, others get—as one said—hot under the collar every time the thought of the gradual extermination of these beautiful creatures comes up."

CALEDONIA AS GAME PRESERVE

A movement is likely to be made to have the state close all state land to hunters of all kinds, and especially of deer, for a long term. The past summer Caledonia park had almost daily visits of one or more deer and these are now likely to be driven away, permanently, by the incessant shooting of the open season. It is possible that Caledonia Park and Grassfield hills, land owned by the state, will be made a game preserve.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 18.—Norman E. Mack, of Buffalo, N. Y., chairman of the Democratic national committee said here:

ATTACK ELECTION OF GOLDSBOROUGH

Maryland Democrats Prepare Gubernatorial Contest.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 18.—Friends of Arthur P. Gorman, including prominent Democratic leaders, are preparing to contest the election of Phillips Lee Goldsborough, Republican, as governor.

Court proceedings for opening the ballot boxes will be instituted at once. The Democrats assert that the supervisors of elections had no legal right to put the name of William H. Brune on the ballots as a "progressive Democratic" candidate for judge of the orphan court of Baltimore.

Three judges of this court were to be voted for, and the appearance of Mr. Brune on the ticket as a "progressive Democrat" led nearly 4,000 Democrats to vote for him along with the three regular nominees. Their voting in this manner invalidated all their ballots. Mr. Goldsborough's plurality, unofficial, in the entire state was 2964.

CUMMINS URGES NEW TRUST LAW

Says Sherman Act Will Not Maintain Competition.

AND SHOULD BE AMENDED

Senator Suggests Many Changes to the Interstate Commerce Commission of the Senate.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Changes in the Sherman anti-trust law to prohibit such a reorganization as that sanctioned in the American Tobacco company case and to prevent such delays in prosecution as have occurred in the beef trust hearing were declared necessary by Senator Cummins at the hearings before the interstate commerce commission of the senate.

Questioning H. B. Martin, of the Anti-Trust league, who opposed any amendment to the Sherman law, Senator Cummins referred to the decree in the Tobacco company case authorizing the reorganization of four companies, and called attention to the announced purpose of the department of justice not to interfere with the reorganization.

"I do not believe the organization of four companies will restore competition, but in the minds of the authorities, it is apparently in harmony with the anti-trust law," said Senator Cummins. "In my opinion the anti-trust law will not maintain competition, and it ought to be amended and strengthened."

Senator Cummins referred to a possible limitation of the capital stock of corporations; a divorcing of manufacturing business from sources of supplies and a separation of business and transportation elements as changes in the law that would lead to better competition.

Mr. Martin said that the Anti-Trust league, of which he is secretary, proposes to fight the dissolution decree in the American Tobacco company case on the ground that it does not apply to the anti-trust law. He declared that succeeding officials of the government in the last twenty years had failed to enforce the law properly.

"Do you claim they betrayed their trust?" asked Senator Cummins.

"That is strong language," said Mr. Martin, "but in some cases I believe they did."

Senator Cummins said that in his opinion when a certain course had been pursued over a period of years by public officials in not enforcing the laws there was either something essential lacking in the law or that all public officials constituted "a band of rescals."

WORKING TO SAVE BABIES

Chicago Conference Points Out Cause of Alarming Mortality Among Infants.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—In the last ten years about 2,000,000 babies born alive died in their first year and nearly as many more died at or before birth, said Dr. Helen C. Putnam, of Providence, R. I., at the Conference of the American Association for Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality.

Dr. Putnam declared that the infant death rate measures the efficiency of physicians, health officers and educators. "Ours measures twenty-second in a list of thirty-one civilized nations," she said.

A system of continuation schools to occupy the interval between the time a girl's school education ordinarily is finished and the time of her marriage was earnestly advocated by Dr. Putnam.

Startling statements were made in the section of midwifery. "The untrained midwife and the physician lacking proper training who preside over the births of more than 50 per cent of the babies are responsible for the death of many infants," it was charged.

The results of fifty questions sent to professors and doctors brought out the knowledge, it was said, that untrained medical practitioners were responsible for as many deaths as unscientific midwives.

Washington Storekeeper Murdered.

Washington, Nov. 18.—William H. Michel, sixty-two years old, proprietor of a tobacco store in the heart of the business section, was found murdered in the rear of his establishment. Beside the body was found a mechanic's wrench. There was no evidence of a struggle, and the cash register had not been molested.

Congressmen Reach Panama.

Colon, Panama, Nov. 18.—Chairman Fitzgerald and his associates on the appropriations committee of the house of representatives, arrived here on the steamship Cristobal. Colonel Goethals and the others of the canal commission met them and accompanied them by train to Ancon.

Six Die in Train Wreck.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 18.—A passenger train and a work train on the North car Pacific railroad collided twenty miles east of Butte, near Pipestone station, and six men, occupying a car on the work train, were killed and their bodies burned in a fire that consumed the car.

WAKE FREE AFTER 22 YEARS

Man Twice Convicted of Murder and Twice Pardoned, Released.

Philadelphia, Nov. 18.—Sydney Ware, twice convicted of murder and twice pardoned, left the eastern penitentiary a free man.

Ware left the institution with his sister-in-law. They said they were going to the home of Ware's brother in Nicetown, the address of which they declined to give. There Ware said he would remain for two or three weeks until his plans for the future are completed.

Warden McKenty said that Ware had been a model prisoner. He has spent more than twenty-two years behind the bars for the shooting and killing of two men, Morris Miller and Frederick Kindler, in a saloon in Lykens, Pa., on the night of May 4, 1889. Ware shot the men in a dispute over a game of cards.

He was sentenced to be hanged by the court. The board of pardons then intervened and his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Friends then secured his pardon.

As he stepped outside the jail last June he was arrested for the killing of the second man, having only been sentenced in the first instance for the killing of one. He was again sentenced to prison, this time to serve not more than two years and not less than one. The board of pardons at the solicitation of some of Ware's friends again pardoned him, and he walked from the grim walls of the prison a free man.

EUROPE ROCKED BY EARTHQUAKE

Street Cars Are Derailed and Towns in Panic.

Berlin, Nov. 18.—An earthquake which was felt in a wide area of central Europe severely damaged the castle of Hohenzollern, on the steep Zollberg, near Hechingen, Prussia.

Statues on the beautiful structure were disfigured and great cracks appeared on the towers.

At Constance, in the grand duchy of Baden, the spire and cross of the cathedral, the most imposing building in the city, fell. A colossal statue of Germania, which crowned the post office building, tumbled into the street.

The kingdom of Wurtemberg was shaken hard. In Ebingen five hundred frightened persons spent the night around fires in an open field. Railway communication with the place has been interrupted.

A violent earth shock was felt throughout Switzerland. This was followed by lesser quakes. The movement was especially strong in the cantons of Berne and Zurich, in the district of Interlaken and throughout the region of the Alps. So far as known there were no casualties.

In Geneva street cars were derailed. In Berne and in Zurich theater audiences were thrown into a panic and rushed into the streets. Many women fainted from fear. In the towns along the mountain slopes the inhabitants fled from their homes and did not re-enter until they were satisfied that the foundations of the houses were not seriously damaged.

At Chamounix enormous avalanches rushed down Mont Blanc. Glass ornaments were broken in homes throughout the disturbed area. The seismic motion was from north to south.

A dispatch from Mulhausen, Alsace Lorraine, states that two earthquakes of unusual violence passed from west to east. People fled to the open in terror. A huge stone fell from the steeple of St. Stephen's church, and walls in the upper stories of many dwellings were badly cracked. A performance in a theater was suspended, the audience, terrified, flying to the streets.

Mrs. Brokaw Gets $15,000 Alimony.

New York, Nov. 18.—The appellate division affirmed a decision of the lower court awarding $15,000 a year alimony to Mary Blair Brokaw, who secured a legal separation last spring from W. Gould Brokaw. Originally the court gave Mrs. Brokaw $7500 a year, but upon the plea that her husband's income was $100,000 a year she succeeded in having the alimony doubled.

A MOCK MARRIAGE

By R. D. CHATSWORTH

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Though twenty-seven is young for a man, he feels at that age usually the first tinge of ennui at his bachelorhood. The first freshness of youth has gone out of him, and a vision of a home enlivened by wife and children looms up before him.

Walter Nixon had reached this age, or rather, in his case, it was standing between the period of thoughtless youth and thoughtful middle age. One day he was skylarking with a lot of young men and women when some one proposed that they should have a mock wedding.

"I'll be the bride," said Jaqueline Woodruff, a girl who was always first and foremost in any prank.

"And I'll be the groom," said Walter gallantly since he was standing beside her at the moment, and all eyes were turned upon him.

Few young people realize that it is dangerous to trifle with a wedding.

So Walter Nixon and Jaqueline Woodruff stood up. One of the young men of the party asked if they would take each other for husband and wife. Walter took a seal ring off his finger and put it on that of Jaqueline, the man who was officiating pronounced them man and wife, and amid many jokes and much laughter, they received congratulations from the others. No one considered it anything more than an escapade, and when a new amusement was proposed the spectators forgot all about the first.

A few days later Miss Woodruff, on opening her mail, read a note from Walter Nixon, beginning "My dear wife." It contained an invitation to the theater and several facetious remarks as to her duty toward the writer as her husband. It was all very funny, and somehow it sounded rather pleasant. She was of a marriageable age and since she was twenty-two years old thought it high time she should be married. Nixon was a good fellow, able to support a wife and generally acceptable. Jaqueline did not know how much of joke and how much of earnest there was in his letter, but she felt at liberty to reply in kind. So she began her letter "My dear husband" and signed it "Your loving wife."

Soon after this Nixon was telling Cummings, a lawyer friend, about "the joke," as he called it. Cummings looked a trifle serious, whereupon Nixon asked him if he thought anything of import could come of it.

"The lady," replied the lawyer, "if she were disposed to claim you as her husband, might make it very unpleasant for you."

"You don't mean it?" exclaimed Nixon.

"You have addressed her as 'My dear wife,' which is pretty good evidence in law that you have married her. Suppose she says she considered the marriage a contract. What are you going to do about it with your letter in her hands?"

"By Jove! I never thought of that. What shall I do?"

"The only thing you can do is to get your letter and destroy it."

"I'll do it at once."

That evening Nixon called on Miss Woodruff for the express purpose of returning her letter and getting possession of his own. She was in a very becoming costume and smiled on him pleasantly.

"I'm glad you've come, dear," she said, with a twinkle in her eye. "I've been in an agony for fear you had met with some accident. How could you remain so long away from me?"

How pleasant that sounded! Though the words were in fun, he thought he would like to hear more of her kind. He would keep up the pleasant exchange of letters. So he said something to her that he considered proper for a husband to say to a wife forgetting that it was more appropriate for a lover, and it was all so funny that they kept it up for some time.

Before departing he said: "My friend Cummings says that if you really choose to claim me—I mean if I really choose to claim you for my wife—I might put you to a lot of trouble."

"What trouble?"

"Well, I might insist that our marriage was serious."

"Well?"

"And you might!" He stopped.

"Put you to a lot of trouble." She looked down on the floor, apparently much pained.

"Not that. You might!"

"Might what?"

Her voice trembled a little.

"Oh, I can't get it out. Don't feel hurt. I didn't mean to say anything I should be sorry for—that is, nothing you should be sorry to hear. I'm awfully ashamed. There's nothing to cry about."

There seemed to be an irresistible attraction in the girl's waist for the man's arm and an equally irresistible attraction in the man's shoulder for the girl's head. There were a few incoherent murmurs, and the car was harnessed before the horse. In other words, their wedding had preceded the engagement.

Their friends declared that there was no need of another marriage, for they had intended to be married by the first, but the bride bridled at such an accusation and insisted on a large and splendid wedding.

Your Gray Hairs Quickly Vanish

A Harmless Remedy, Made from Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is natural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If every thing is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray.

The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff, but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Get a bottle to-day, and let it do for you what it has done for thousands of others.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

HAMMOND CZAR'S TOOL, HE ASSERTS

Banker Schiff Also Attacks Ambassador to Russia.

BETRAY PASSPORT QUESTION

Financier Declares John Hays Hammond Paid No Heed to American Rights in Czar's Country.

New York, Nov. 18.—Jacob H. Schiff made the charge that the true reason for the United States not insisting on the recognition of its treaty rights with Russia regarding passports issued to Jews traveling in Russia, was that such a policy was thought to be harmful to certain American business interests.

Mr. Schiff said that at one time he had refused to use his influence to help Russia obtain a financial footing in this country, and had later been told by an agent of the Russian government, a Mr. Wilenken, that in spite of his opposition, a syndicate of American manufacturers had been formed to exploit the Russian field. These arrangements, according to Mr. Schiff, had been made by Wilenken with John Hays Hammond, and Mr. Schiff quoted the Russian agent as saying that Mr. Hammond had been selected for the task "because of the influence he had on President Taft."

Mr. Schiff was one of a large number of prominent Jews who went to the offices of Senator O'Gorman, at 37 Wall street, with the purpose of laying before Senators O'Gorman and Root the situation which at present makes it impossible for Americanized Russian Jews, as well as Protestant and Catholic missionaries, to travel in Russia.

The American Jewish committee and the presidents of various communal institutions united in asking the two New York senators to favor the abrogation of the present Russian treaty, which dates from 1832.

Senator O'Gorman said that the grievance was well founded and called for immediate redress. He would support the resolution for terminating the treaty unless Russia at once ceased to discriminate against a certain class of Americans. Senator Root did not go so far, merely saying he would give his advice and support to a course that would lead to a satisfactory solution of the problem.

At that Mr. Schiff rose and told the senators that he knew the negotiations President Taft had carried on in the matter had been in good faith, but that his ambassador in St. Petersburg, Rockhill, considered the passport matter of much less importance than the business interests of American manufacturers. Mr. Schiff went on:

"In an interview with Mr. Rockhill, which had been reported to us, he said that he did not mean to jeopardize the opportunities for this business by a too strong insistence on a proper interpretation of the treaty with Russia. Have we any other choice than to end the treaty?"

Then Mr. Schiff told of his refusing to help Wilenken, the Russian agent, in the latter's financial schemes here. "A little later," continued the speaker, "Mr. Wilenken told of making favorable arrangements for forming an American syndicate for the exportation of American products to Russia and for the construction there of American plants. He said it would be a good thing for both countries. When he told me that John Hays Hammond had made the arrangements for the syndicate, I expressed surprise and told him that Mr. Hammond was not a manufacturer, but a mining engineer, and not a very good one, either. I asked him why he had made the arrangements with Mr. Hammond, and Mr. Wilenken replied without hesitation, 'Because of the influence he has with President Taft.'"

That Mr. Wilenken's statements were true was proved when Mr. Hammond went to Russia and came back proclaiming himself convinced that the czar was one of the most liberal monarchs on earth. What does Russia do? It even thinks it can influence the president of the United States."

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 18.—"If the statement as reported in the New York evening papers be true that Jacob H. Schiff charged me with having endeavored to influence President Taft in his attitude on the Jewish passport question, I would emphatically say that Mr. Schiff utters an unqualified falsehood—a cowardly lie." This is the statement of John Hays Hammond, when told of Mr. Schiff's statement.

Pastor Favors Legal Guardians for Divorces' Children.

New York, Nov. 18.—State control of marriage, which would make it impossible for unfit persons to wed, and the creation of legal guardianship for the children of divorced persons, whether they be poor or wealthy, were suggested by Rev. Mrs. Spencer read a paper on "Modern Problems of Marriage and Divorce," in the course of which she assured her hearers that there was no reason for concern over the divorce question.

SHOT DEAD BY SISTER AT PLAY

Game of "Shooting Chickens" Ends Fatally.

Flemington, N. J., Nov. 18.—Nelson Hoff, aged eight years, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hoff, residing near Pattenburg, was shot and instantly killed by his sister, Edna Hoff, aged about eleven years.

During the absence of their parents the children began amusing themselves by playing "shooting chickens" in their home with their father's shotgun. When the play began the weapon was not loaded. After a time the boy, unobserved by his sister, secured a loaded shell from his father's hunting coat and placed it in the gun. He then told his sister to shoot, and when she did so the lead entered the boy's face near the mouth, killing him instantly.

Edna, frightened at the horrible spectacle, hastened to the home of nearby neighbors for assistance. When the neighbors arrived they found the boy lying dead upon the floor.

Coroner John K. Nairight was summoned and found that the shooting was purely accidental and granted a burial permit.

GIVES CARDINAL $50,000

Philadelphia Man Endows Chair in New Gibbons Memorial Hall.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 18.—One of the largest private gifts ever made through or to the Catholic church in this city was made to Cardinal Gibbons, when J. J. Ryan, of Philadelphia, in person, at the archiepiscopal residence on North Charles street, placed in the cardinal's hand $50,000 for the founding of a chair in the new Gibbons Memorial Hall of the Catholic university in Washington.

The method of making the presentation is as remarkable as the gift, as it came to Cardinal Gibbons absolutely unannounced. The entire transaction required only a few minutes. One of the stipulations of the gift was that it should be kept an absolute secret. For that reason no information would be given at the archiepiscopal residence.

PREDICT FALL OF NEW MINISTRY

Yuan Shi Tai's Task Believed to be Hopeless.

MANY LOYALISTS DESERTING

Hankow Is Bombarded Nightly and a Great Battle Is Hourly Expected. Rebels Gaining in All Directions.

Peking, Nov. 18.—Twenty-four hours have sufficed to cast the gravest doubts upon Yuan Shih Kai's ability to carry on the government with the cabinet that was announced Thursday, or perhaps with any cabinet whose policy includes the maintenance of a monarchy.

Some of the appointees have declined the posts, while there are various conflicting elements among the remainder whom Yuan as yet has not succeeded in coordinating. It seems hourly more questionable whether Yuan will prove to be the savior for whom China has been waiting.

A number of agents of the provinces which have revolted are now at the capital spreading republican ideas and urging the entire elimination of the throne in the constitution.

That the taking up of the reins by Yuan Shih Kai has not affected the position of the Yangtse section is shown in the reports from Hankow where fighting has started again. The imperial commander telegraphed urgently for ammunition and supplies. The governor of Honan reports that the loyalty of the troops under his command is not to be vouched for unless they receive their pay. He requests that 500,000 taels be sent at once to pay the soldiers. It is doubtful if the money will be forthcoming, in which case the Honanese are expected to join the republicans.

Reports from rebel sources here that the negotiations between Yuan Shih Kai and the rebels at Hankow have broken down completely on the question of the dynasty. Li Yun Heng and his colleagues are immovable in that regard, hence there is more fighting. The revolutionists are reported to have driven back the imperialists in all directions; have recrossed the river Han, which separates Hankow and Hanyang, and have retaken the water works. The loyalists are said to be deserting or refusing to fight and many officers are reported to have committed suicide. Hankow is bombarded nightly, with great damage.

It is reported also that Admiral Sah Chen Ping is a prisoner or that he has gone over to the rebels. One report is that he was persuaded to land at Kiu Kiang and was there captured, after which the crews of the vessels under his command hoisted the rebel flag upon the gunboats.

Another version is that Sah himself raised the flag, but did not participate in the fighting of the rebels. The revolutionists declare that only 1000 imperialists hold the passes north of Hankow.

A great battle is also expected hourly near Hankow as soon as the imperial troops are reinforced. The rebels are entrenched strongly at Hanyang and have the well equipped arsenal there on which to draw. Their army has been increased by 20,000 men and by 8000 trained troops from Chang Sha. Arms and ammunition are plentiful, and should the forces clash it is believed the losses would be heavier than any yet reported.

1000 Killed in Chang-Chow Fight.

Amoy, Nov. 18.—Interior towns in the southern half of this province, Po Kien, having been abandoned by the imperial officials, are appealing to the revolutionists to send magistrates to preserve order.

From Sloke, near Chang-Chow, there comes word that the anti-foreign White Fans are becoming active at Sloke.

According to native estimates more than 1000 casualties had occurred in the three days' fighting at Chang Chow.

A NEEDED CONSERVATION.

One bears much these days about conservation, particularly that which has to do with the husbanding and protecting of forms of material wealth, such as ores, coal, soil and water power.
This is a praiseworthy movement, but there is another type of conservation that is of even more vital concern than that involving the relations that exist in the myriad homes of the land. There is little question that along this one line there are a dissipation of vital energy and a destruction of the best wealth of American homes —their peace and happiness—that are of greater moment than the waste in any material realm can possibly be.
This waste takes place in the pulling and hauling, faultfinding, bitterness and dissension that curse and blast so many homes, weaken and impoverish so many lives, and in instances not a few actually induce fatal illness and result in both murder and suicide.
The average person would call another a fool who, instead of oiling a machine which he wished to operate, put acid and sharp grit on all the bearings, yet in thousands of homes everywhere this same thing is done continually—the wearing parts of the home deluged daily with the acid of bitterness and dissension and the grit of selfishness and all around meanness when these same bearings should be kept clean and bright with cheerfulness and lubricated with kindness and real affection. The members of all too many homes seem to have missed the great fact that it is just as easy and a whole lot more profitable to be happy than miserable and that making the former condition a reality is the noblest kind of conservation.

TREE SURGERY.

There are one or two points connected with removing large limbs from shade trees that the novice at the job would do well to remember. The first is that the limb should be sawed one third through from the underside and a foot or two from the trunk. Next a cut should be made with the saw on the upper side of the limb and a foot or so farther from the trunk than the cut on the underside. This should be continued until the weight of the limb causes it to fall. Instead of ripping a strip of bark off clear down to the tree, as is so often the case when the cut on the underside of the limb is not made, this will be prevented by the undercut mentioned. A stub will be left at this stage, and the final cut should then be made, sawing this off as close to the trunk as possible without disturbing the bark and on a line parallel with the direction of the trunk.
The aim should be to leave the cut in such shape that it will heal over in the shortest possible time. To prevent decay setting in to the trunk from the cut the latter should be given two or three coats of white lead paint or smeared over with a thin coating of grafting wax.

One of the latest baits recommended for catching wall eyed pike is strips of orange peeling. It seems to be the bright color of the bait rather than any value it possesses for food that attracts the fish.

THE COMFORT OF A FURNACE.

Some of you folks that have money in the bank or what comes to the same thing—grain in the crib or fat steers in the feed lot—and have been heating your houses with all the way from two to half a dozen stoves would better look up the matter of installing a heating plant. It will not only mean an economy of fuel, but a maximum of comfort for all members of the family, coupled with a minimum of dirt and ashes for the women to clean up. While hot water systems are in some ways the most satisfactory from the standpoint of evenness of heat and economy of operation when once installed, they are also the most expensive. It is further quite necessary that the houses in which the water system is installed should be frostproof from cellar to garret. If this heating system or the steam heating type does not seem advisable the hot air system should be installed, and very satisfactory outfits can be got at from $85 to $150. The chief point in favor of the hot air plant lies in the fact that all parts of all rooms which are equipped with registers will be evenly heated. There is no "frozen on one side, roasted on the other side" business about it. If one has been subjected to these extremes for a generation or more he will appreciate the comfort of a furnace heating plant.

SOME TIPS BY SPRACKLING.

Brown's Quarterback Says One Who Runs Team Must Have Cool Head.
"Keep a cool head," is one of the leading tips that Earl Sprackling, Brown's sensational quarterback, gives to aspiring football players. Sprack-ling recently handed out a few bits of advice which will no doubt prove of value to schoolboys. He cited several instances of where players had forgotten even the simplest things about football in the excitement of a game because of the fact that they got rattled. Coolness, he said, was one of the main requisites for a player running a team.

Sprackling laid some stress on the need of good kickers this year. "There are many kinds of kicks in football and as many ways to make them," says the famous gridiron star. "The most common is the long, high punt.
McKay, Brown's captain last year, was the best man I ever saw at this style. He held the ball at arm's

QUARTERBACK.

length and on a level with his head, the ball pointing in at an angle of thirty degrees. He brought his leg up straight to the knee until his foot turned inward at the same angle as the ball. He caught the ball on the side, giving it the spiral twist. His kick continued through until his foot was over his head.

"In the end the long, low punt is gaining favor. The ball travels about ten yards high and is hard to handle." The drop kick and place kick will be more important this year, for there is a lack of scoring plays within the twenty yard line. A team must have a man who can make field goals. The place kick gives more distance, but is less accurate than the drop kick, because the men handle the ball in the former.

SOME PRACTICAL DAIRY POINTERS.

A small amount of buttermilk added to the sweet cream, when enough has been gathered for a churning, helps to facilitate the ripening of it these cool days.

Though careful feeding will to some extent increase the amount of milk, the butter quality cannot be improved much except by breeding up the herd.
The way to do is to select cows which give large quantities of milk having a higher per cent of butter fat than that contained in the milk from the cows you already possess.

If you keep a bull, keep him for breeding purposes and have one worthy of that honor. The other bulls either dispose of when they are calves or else convert them into steers.

No dairy utensils will stay sweet and wholesome unless they are thoroughly washed and scalded every time they are used. First wash off with lukewarm water the milk adhering to them, then wash well with hot water containing soda or some good washing soda, using no soap at all. If there is any dirt which a cloth will not remove try a brush. Finally scald with strictly boiling water, for other-

Admirers of the Guernsey cow content that she has no pronounced weak points. The addition of Guernsey blood in crossing with cows of mixed breeding will result in a higher milk flow and in richer milk. The deep and prolonged milking qualities of the pure bred Guernsey, together with adaptability to the conditions of the average farm, make this type of dairy cow a formidable competitor to the breeds that have a wider and greater distribution.
Glencoe Bopeep, shown herewith, is a fine type of the breed.

wise the bacteria will not be destroyed, and drain on a sunny bench or shelf.

The udder of a cow should be elastic and pliable and show many folds when milked out. If it is symmetrical and well proportioned, as it should be, the teats will be about equal distances apart and smooth and evenly shaped.
A large udder does not always indicate that the cow is a good one, but it is imperative that her milk veins be large, and the more winding and branching they are the better. Though these veins do not carry milk, as one would naturally suppose, they convey blood from the udder to the body, and the more blood that passes through the udder the more milk the cow will give,
in that milk is produced from the blood.

Judging the Age of a Horse.

"To tell the age of a horse," says Professor E. L. Potter of the Oregon Agricultural college, "notice his teeth.
his ribs, the flesh on his tail and the skin on his cheeks. In a young horse the skin on his cheeks is soft and elastic and flies back quickly, while in an old one the skin is lifeless and goes back to place but slowly. There is a wider, more distinct space apparent between the ribs of an old horse than of a young one. And with age the flesh on the tail shrinks, making the joints more distinct.

"The most accurate method of judging is by the teeth. The temporary teeth come first and then the permanent ones, and their development to maturity, change in shape on account of wear, coming of the 'cups' and their ultimate wearing away, with the change in angle of meeting from perpendicular to an acute angle in age.
All are important indications of age.

"The permanent teeth above and below come in at the same time, but the cups above do not wear away until all those below are gone. The changes begin at the center and continue at the rate of one pair a year. At maturity (five years) a horse has everything—all the permanent teeth and their cups.
This is the whole thing in a nutshell."

Grade the Swine.

Grade the hogs as to size, thrift and general condition and separate them into two or three lots before beginning to feed them for the market. You thus will realize greater profits from the sale of swine, since each herd will be more uniform in size and condition.
Besides, each lot of hogs may be fed more economically, since what meets the needs of some will not meet the needs of all.—Farm and Fireside.

Trimming Sheep's Feet.

A matter of no little importance to the sheep farmer is the trimming of the sheep's feet. In the course of the summer their feet grow long, turning under when wet weather comes. In these pockets dirt accumulates, and there foot rot starts. Any prevention of foot rot is worth looking after, and so these rough feet must be straightened up before the long season of winter housing comes.

Shelter the Mare.
There is no more pitiable sight than a mare and foal standing in the open with their coats turned the wrong way and shivering with cold.

KEEPING POTATOES.

Points to Be Considered in the Storing of the Tubers.

The potatoes shown in the illustration are excellent Peachblows grown in the Carbondale district of Colorado under irrigation, says the American Agriculturist. The uniformity and smoothness of the samples show that great care has been used for a number of years in the selection of seed. The eyes are shallow, the shape and size exceedingly uniform. The average yield of these potatoes in 1910 was about 400 bushels per acre. This particular sample analyzed 20 per cent starch.

The important points to be considered in potato storing are as follows:
First, the temperature should be kept as low as possible without freezing; second, the air should be kept as dry as possible; third, the potatoes should be kept dark.

A good cellar is 50 by 200 feet. At each end there is a dead air space ten feet square in the form of a vestibule

COLORADO PEACHBLOWS.
(From the American Agriculturist.)

between the outer and inner doors, which affords protection from freezing. There is a driveway clear through, with bins on either side, skylights and ventilators being placed every ten feet. The temperature of the cellar may be lowered by opening the doors and letting a current of air pass through. When it is too cold for this the ventilators at the top may be opened. The best ventilation is always acquired by building the cellar in line with the direction of the prevailing air currents. During the winter the temperature should be kept as near 32 as possible. It is best when it does not go below 30 nor above 36. A temperature of 28 for one or two hours will not freeze potatoes.

In planning the size of the structure it is safe to estimate one bushel at one and one-quarter cubic feet. In a small cellar built with a driveway this space need not be wasted, but stored with potatoes or other vegetables after the bins at the side have been filled. One important point in the storage of potatoes is to reduce the temperature to as low a point as possible directly after the product is stored. Put about one foot of potatoes on the cellar floor, and by the time the entire floor is covered to that depth the heat from those potatoes is pretty well carried off by the air currents. Then add another layer, thus properly regulating the temperature as the storage progresses. When the cellar is filled the potatoes are piled about five feet deep.

Sorting potatoes that have started to rot from freezing or disease requires a cellar that can be lighted when desired. Ventilation devices, such as open partitions, may be used to advantage when large quantities of potatoes are stored in bulk. Sacked potatoes, corded in piles, keep well in a good cellar. When sprouts start in the spring the growth of these may be checked by moving the sacks. A bruised sprout dies. When the floor is of dirt it is well to use some sort of material, preferably strips of wood, between the dirt and the potatoes to prevent rot. It is important that potatoes be free from dirt when taken from the field to the cellar. Dirty potatoes do not keep well because of the dirt that falls off and fills up the air spaces between the potatoes, thus preventing free ventilation. A very satisfactory place to build a cellar is on a knoll, thus insuring perfect water drainage and a good circulation.

Recipe For Killing Weevils.

Weevils in chestnuts, beans, peas, etc., may easily be killed thus: Put the chestnuts or beans into a tight box, full or barrel large enough to hold the amount to be treated, pour some bluishide of carbon in a saucer and set on top of the infested nuts or beans. Then cover the receptacle as tightly as possible and leave it so for twenty-four hours. Caution: The fumes of bluishide are explosive and poisonous. Be careful. Have no lights or fire near.—Farm Journal.

didn't know she was a writer."
